My co-worker remembers giving less than a year ago. Why doesn’t it count?
Any gift made to UC during the fiscal year running from July 1 to June 30 of the next calendar year counts for that fiscal year’s campaign. For example, a gift made in June 2012 counted for fiscal year 2012, but a gift made in July 2012 counts for the current 2013 campaign.

My co-worker currently has contributions to UC deducted from their paycheck. How can that not count?
Pledges are counted in the year in which they are made (as opposed to when pledge payments are made). Outright gifts of cash, checks, credit card or stock are counted as soon as the transaction is completed. If someone makes a multi-year pledge (a commitment to give a set amount over time, up to 5 years) we will count participation in each fiscal year in which pledge payments are being made.

How will I know who is a current donor and whose involvement I still need to encourage?
The Foundation will provide you with a list of current donors and non-donors. Individuals who wish to check if they already participated this year can look for their name on the Honor Roll at uc.edu/foundation/facultystaff. Employees automatically receive credit for their spouse’s gift to UC.

Why must gifts be made payable to the UC Foundation?
The UC Foundation is a 501(c)3 organization that accepts gifts for the purposes of advancing UC’s mission. Tax receipts will come from the Foundation, but gifts are distributed to the college, department or program fund that you select. In most cases, 100% of your gift is tax deductible.

What is the difference between the Faculty & Staff Campaign and United Way and ArtsWave campaigns?
Gifts made during the Faculty & Staff Campaign stay right here at UC and benefit our students and programs. While it’s important to invest in our community, it’s very important to invest in UC because it will inspire alumni and friends to support UC with their gifts.
