Did you Know…Financial stressors are not only negatively impacting employees, but are costing employers? Stressed employees are found to be less productive, take time off from work to deal with their finances, and are more likely to cite health issues caused by financial stress.

Price Waterhouse Cooper’s Employee Financial Wellness Survey tracks the financial well-being of working U.S. adults nationwide. Their 2017 survey highlights just how fragile the situation is with regard to employees and their personal financial well-being. It is estimated that 53% percent of all employees are stressed about their finances.

Those who are stressed are more likely to be:
- Distracted by their finances at work
- Miss work because of their personal financial issues
- Cite health issues caused by financial stress.
