Dear Communiversity Students,

Welcome Back to UC Victory Parkway Campus!

Here we are in the dog days of summer, as they say! I hope you have been able to reconnect in person with family and friends now that the weather is warm and we’re through those last 12 months! It is nice to see so many familiar faces returning to campus and we are looking forward to serving you with our fantastic Fall lineup.

You may have noticed that we streamlined our online registration process during the Summer term. Our goal is to continue to make it even easier for you to login and sign up. Now, you will find all of your favorite classes listed on the Course Catalog page. Each course has its own web page full of information about the class and your instructor with a link directly to checkout. We hope you like the new website (Communiversity.uc.edu) and the ease of signing up!

This Fall, we have doubled down on the topics you love! We have over 40 NEW classes in travel, painting, jewelry making, cooking, health, dance, and several local interests and history classes for your enjoyment.

Welcome back to Fall term. Our classrooms are open for more in-person learning!

We have doubled down on the topics you love with over 40 NEW classes in the Fall term!

Learning is always better when it’s shared. So give your friends a call and invite them to attend a class with you!

Best Regards,

Janet

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Continuous learning for all stages of life

A WHOLE-PERSON APPROACH TO YOUR RETIREMENT
Retirement is an important life transition and thought and attention are typically given to getting your finances in order. It's equally important to understand the normal emotional changes that may occur as you enter this important stage of your life. This class will help you to make the most of it! Through a series of lectures and small group activities, you will gain important understanding into how your psychological well-being can contribute to a positive (or negative) retirement. Using the tools and resources provided, you will gain valuable insight to how you can receive the outcome you want. By the end of the second class, you will have created a tentative personal plan for your positive retirement.

YOUR FAMILY TREE & WRITING YOUR MEMOIR
Most people don't think that they are an “important” member of the family tree but certainly, as time passes, they are just as important as their ancestors from near and far. It is time to write these stories down before they are gone forever from your family history or, possibly, other historical archives. In this two-part class we will be working to get you going on your important story, develop a focus that works best for you, and gain valuable feedback to help you begin writing your unique (and important) story.

PLANNING FOR THE END-OF-LIFE: THE GIFT OF PEACE OF MIND
Thinking and talking about the end-of-life can be difficult, but a necessary step to assure your wants and needs will be honored when the time comes. This class will provide you with valuable tools and resources to address the practical preparation for your own death or that of a family member. We will review the reasons to prepare an end-of-life plan, what documentation to gather, and how to approach talking with the relevant people about your wishes. We will discuss the need for a plan for illness and specifying preferences for a funeral or memorial and, perhaps creating a legacy document or lasting memory to leave behind. This is not a class for legal or medical advice, but you will receive thoughtful, caring information and references to resources to help guide you through this important step.

THE KING RECORDS LEGACY
King Records was an independent recording studio, founded in 1943 in the Evanston neighborhood of Cincinnati. It was at one point the sixth largest record company in the United States, representing artists such as James Brown, Bonnie Lou, The Stanley Brothers, and Otis Williams and The Charms. Though the company closed in 1971, the site still stands with an historical marker from the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame. Learn the encapsulating history of King Records’ influence in America’s mid-twentieth century music culture, and the renovation designs proposed to preserve this significant part of Cincinnati’s history.

COLD PICKLING 201
The first class was so much fun we want to do it again! Quick or cold pickling is a brilliant solution for preserving the plethora of harvest vegetables from the market or your garden. Quick pickling doesn’t require canning when refrigerated and you don’t need a bushel of vegetables, so you can prepare a little bit of whatever is fresh in season. Join chefs Rebecca Denney and Mona Bronson Fuqua and dive a little deeper in the brine. In this class, we will explore making a traditional cold cucumber pickle, pickled beets, and one other pickle requested by our first pickling class. There is no pre-requisite for taking this class, but if you were in Pickling 101, please come back for this dilly of a class!

CINCINNATI IN THE CIVIL WAR: THEN AND NOW
In this fascinating class, we will explore the significant impact Cincinnatians made on the American Civil War. Not only was it the North’s most populous city in the west, it was also the nation’s third-most productive manufacturing center. Instrumental in the Underground Railroad prior to the conflict, Cincinnati became a focal point for curbing Southern incursion into Union territory. Nearby Camp Dennison was Ohio’s largest camp in the Civil War and one of the largest in the United States. Join Cincinnati historian David L. Mowery, as he examines the many different facets of the Queen City during the war, from the enlistment of the city’s area residents in more than 590 Federal regiments and artillery units to the city’s production of seventy-eight U.S. Navy gunboats for the nation’s rivers.

OLDEST CINCINNATI
Late in the 18th century, people in American began heading west in search of new frontiers and new lives. Many of them found their way down the Ohio River to Cincinnati, known as the “Queen City of the West.” In the book, “Oldest Cincinnati,” author Dann Woelkert tells the story of a ferry that enabled early settlers to cross the Ohio River at Augusta, Kentucky. Active in 1798, the ferry is still in business today. You’ll hear the story of an inn that provided shelter for early stagecoach travelers. It opened in 1803 in Lebanon, Ohio and continues to welcome guests to this day. Spend a fascinating evening learning about one of the first settlements in the Northwest Territory—originally called “Losantiville” before it was dubbed Cincinnati—a city that is full of firsts and oldests.

THE FIRST LADY OF CINCINNATI: MARIA LONGWORTH STORER
Maria Longworth Storer is the granddaughter of Nicholas Longworth of Taft House fame and is the founder of Rookwood Pottery. Rookwood was just the beginning Maria’s good deeds that earned her the recognition as the First Lady of Cincinnati. She is credited with making Cincinnati the culture center it is today. Learn about her fascinating life with historian Frank Farmer Loomis and book co-author, Nancy Broermann, as they entertain you with a pictorial overview of Maria’s life, followed by a tour of the grounds of the Saint Ursula Convent where you will view rare pieces of Maria’s Rookwood pottery and the stained glass windows in the chapel she funded. You will learn about Maria’s involvement with helping WWI wounded soldiers, national politics and her many gifts to the city that, until now, are little known accomplishments.

THE G-MAN AND THE NURSE: A 1929 FBI COLD CASE
Join author and former special agent William Plunkett in his fascinating expose of the sensational Washington, D.C. death case that punctuated the end of the roaring twenties. The victim was an attractive young nurse, Virginia McPherson, found dead in her apartment under suspicious circumstances. Her case became a cause célèbre in the capital city where it occupied the headlines for weeks. A maverick patrolman, Robert Allen, doggedly pursued the “suicide” investigation, convinced it was a murder, while it was being reported by the half-dozen daily papers that hung on every bizarre turn. Because of the fervor he created, the entire police investigation was thrown out, a massive public relations disaster for a metropolitan force already besieged by its futile attempts to police the effects of Prohibition. Experience the case unfold in this riveting evening with the author.

SCIENCE & NATURE

THE COSMIC CALENDAR FROM THE BIG BANG TO NOW
In this class, we will virtually explore outer space, learn about how humans are made of “star stuff,” and dive into scientists’ best theories about the history of a universe that is over 13 billion years old. You’ll learn how the Universe, the Milky Way Galaxy, our Solar System, and Earth came to be using the Cosmic Calendar, popularized by the late Carl Sagan. Explore the fascinating calendar that represents the passage of time since the Big Bang.

AUTUMN BIRD WATCHING: FIELD ORNITHOLOGY
Fall is a wonderful time to be outside seeing (and hearing) the amazing bird life surrounding us. The course will involve an overview of the biology of birds and local bird identification. Our professional ornithologist has over 32 years of research in avian migration, and he will cover topics such as bird anatomy and physiology, evolution, relationships with other birds, ecology, and conservation. You will explore bird biology predominately through interactive field labs to prepare you for new bird watching experiences.

Sat., Oct. 2-23, 8 am-2 pm / $199 / Four Classes
Instructor: Ron Canterbury
This class meets at the UC Center for Field Studies. Please bring binoculars and a notepad.
SCIENCE & NATURE

Conservation Impact!

Many people volunteer or join nature centers and other conservation organizations because they want to help support conservation. This course will give you a foundation from which you can plan to go further in a strategic and intentional way to address conservation issues that matter to you. In this interactive program, you’ll be challenged to investigate environmental issues and assess your ability to contribute to their resolution, either as an individual or collectively. Through lectures, readings, discussions, and projects, you'll gain context for how your contributions fit into larger environmental goals. Discover ways you can influence positive change through conservation by sharing your values, experiences, and knowledge in an effective way.
