WE ARE EXTREMELY PROUD AND GRATEFUL TO HAVE SERVED OUR LOCAL COMMUNITY FOR 70 YEARS!
Communiversity at the University of Cincinnati offers convenient and innovative classes designed to boost your career and enrich your life.

Classes are noncredit, informal and fun! Online and face-to-face class options.

This September, Communiversity celebrates 70 years of adult education programming. The program began in 1949, under the name Short Term Courses, and offered 15 classes annually. In 1968, the program was renamed Communiversity. From the very beginning, our mission has been to extend the university’s resources to our community by providing educational and enrichment opportunities to adults.

Since the 1950s, there have always been courses offered in arts, travel, finance and contemporary issues. Today, Communiversity has grown to offering more than 130 classes quarterly in a wide variety of content areas.

Through its rich history, Communiversity has had a succession of only seven directors, each making a unique contribution by introducing innovative programming. As its current director, I am excited to share our new instructors and classes with you during our Open House celebration on September 10. Please RSVP at communiversity.uc.edu!

Thank you for being a part of our journey and trusting in us all these years.

Janet Staderman
Program Director
70th Anniversary Open House Celebration

Communiversity invites you to help us celebrate our 70th year by attending an Open House on Tuesday, September 10 from 5:30-7:30 pm at UC’s Victory Parkway Campus.

Established in 1949, Communiversity has stood the test of time because of loyal students and inspiring instructors. Our program has proven that anyone can teach and anyone can learn.

We have so many new instructors this Fall, and you’ll get a chance to meet them and hear more about their classes during the open house. Also, light refreshments and small bites will be served.

Mark your calendars!
September 10 @ 5:30-7:30 pm

PATTERN MAKING 101
Flat pattern making is the study of garment construction in the two-dimensional form. In this 4 week course, you will learn the basics of drafting block patterns along with proper garment construction and the fundamentals of fit. This course is meant to be taken in tandem with our draping course to give you a full understanding of taking the three-dimensional form and transferring it into a two-dimensional flat pattern. Prerequisite: Must have a domestic home sewing machine and have the ability to thread it and sew up basic seam.

Four-week session / $495
Sun, Sept. 8-29 9am-1pm

PATTERN MAKING 102
Build upon the concepts from Pattern Making 101 in this 4 week intensive course. Learn how to apply designs to flat patterns through a greater understanding of how the pattern takes shape and fits on the body. We will focus on the dart and style lines and the many ways that they can be manipulated to bring about endless combinations and possibilities.

Four-week session / $495
Sun, Sept. 8-29 2-6pm

DRAPING 102
You will use the basic concepts learned in the Intro to Draping 101 class as you earn how to manipulate fabric on the dress form using pleats, darts, tucks, style lines etc. to form silhouettes. You will learn how to apply these techniques to design on the dress form through experimentation. We will also study famous designers who were masters of drapery to understand the techniques they used to achieve interesting and unusual results.

Four-week session / $495
Sat, Sept. 7-28 10am-2pm

INTRO TO RIGID HEDDLE WEAVING
This comprehensive beginner’s course will teach all of the skills necessary to be a competent rigid heddle weaver. Topics covered include the anatomy of the rigid heddle loom, how to plan and calculate a project, everything you need to know to weave well on a rigid heddle, and options for weaving finishes. Students will weave scarves as their beginning project.

Art History @ CAM

Join art historian, Kathy Stockman, in a four-week exploration into the major artistic and stylistic developments in the history of art from the prehistoric era through the period of Ancient Greece and Rome.

With over 20 years of teaching, researching and writing about art history, Kathy believes an intellectually engaging appreciation of art and culture can and should take place both inside and outside of the classroom, and she has devoted herself to inviting all people into that conversation; art historians, artists, and art lovers of every level.

Through a combination of lecture format and gallery exploration, this course aims to provide students with a broad understanding of the most representative works from each period, while also learning how specific objects from the Cincinnati Art Museum’s collection fit within the history of art.

Kathy Stockman studied art history at the University of Kansas and went on to earn her graduate degree at the prestigious University of Chicago where she specialized in Modern and Contemporary Art, Race and Latino Identity theory and criticism. She taught art history for ten years at various Ohio colleges and universities including the Art Academy of Cincinnati and Miami University.

PAINTING CLASSES
Instructor: Kevin McCarty

Our classes are appropriate for beginners, but also geared to intermediate students who have attended by classes in the past. One gallery-wrapped, stretched 11 x 14" fine art canvas, a set of brushes, and a full set of paints in a broad spectrum of colors are included in the class fee. Take home your original piece of art ready for framing! No discounts may be applied to these classes.

PAINT A FACE PORTRAIT WITH PASTELS
Bring out your natural creativity and enjoy painting with a medium that is unique in its simplicity, versatility and brilliant colors. Pastel paints have been used by artists since the Renaissance to quickly apply rich, intense color to artists surfaces without the need for paintbrushes, solvents, or a palette. The technique used to layer and blend the colors on a surface is what will make your creation come alive and shine. Kevin is available to start you off by drawing the face from one or more photos you bring with you to class*. Then, he will provide step-by-step instruction to teach you about layering colors and shading on the paper to create the perfect keepsake. Your photo can be a printed photo or bring a laptop or large tablet that you can use to display the photo on the screen. Pastel paints produce dust however, so be aware some dust may settle on electronics. *Please see website for photo requirements.

SNOW AT LOUVECIENNES BY ALFRED SISLEY
Embrace the beauty of winter and experience Alfred Sisley’s fresh approach to impressionism as you paint your own version of this serene snowscape. The impressionists developed a wonderful sensitivity to winter whites and blues, an exceptional ability to see the various modulations of color in snow. In this class, begin training your eye to see those modulations instead of just white snow, to differentiate the color abundance in the blues and grays of winter, as Sisley did. Learn about the impressionists’ spontaneous approach to nature and their ability to mix colors together to suggest light. Practice painting the color variations in light and shade, rapidly breaking down tones into primary and secondary colors and expressions, and creating tonal harmony.

GIRL AT A WINDOW BY REMBRANDT
One of the greatest creative triumphs of Rembrandt van Rijn was his ability to create realistic portraits that capture the inner essence of the person. Rembrandt's use of shadows and light set the tone for the Dutch Golden Age of art. Another famous artist, Henri Matisse, later said he would give everything for a little piece of “Rembrandt's mud”, referring to the brown-gray tones Rembrandt often used for the shadows in his paintings. Join this class and use a simplified technique to produce your own creative response to one of Rembrandt's iconic paintings, “Girl in the Window”. Practice the confident brushstrokes and impasto painting that is typical of Rembrandt's style and mimic his famous brown-gray tones.

The Cincinnati Observatory strives to share the universe and our historic site with all our visitors, and to comply with ADA guidelines, will make all reasonable accommodations to ensure a positive experience when visiting the Observatory. However please note that there are limitations imposed by our architecture, being a National Historic Landmark, and our being a functioning astronomical observatory. The physical act of getting to the telescope’s eyepiece for viewing can also be an issue. The eyepieces on our two main telescopes can be anywhere from 4 feet to over 14 feet above the floor, which typically requires climbing a stepped platform to reach.

UNDERSTANDING THE TIDES
From surfers to sailors to military planners, tides have been a useful and at times, confounding natural phenomena. Usually relegated to the realm of weathermen, tides are actually of astronomical origin. Understanding how and why tides work has been an important study of mankind for millennia, making it possible to predict when the “surf’s up.” Knowing that somehow the moon is involved is just part of the story. The Sun, the shoreline, the continental shelf, and even the barometric pressure all conspire to determine the effect of the tides. The effect can be very small or absolutely huge. Let’s find out what makes tides tick.

FOUND IN SPACE: THE SOLAR SYSTEM’S MINOR BODIES
Since the 1970s, our understanding of the solar system has been reshaped by a series of marvelous space probes and rovers. Planets that at one time were seen as static and passive are now recognized as wonderfully dynamic celestial bodies. But every bit as amazing are the moons, comets and asteroids that are often lost in shadows of the more familiar luminaries. This course explores the latest discoveries that reveal that the minor bodies of the solar system are every bit as fascinating as anything yet discovered.

HOW TO USE YOUR TELESCOPE
Do you have a telescope sitting in the closet or over in the corner and you would love to use it if you only knew how? Do the dials and knobs leave you mystified? Intimidated? There are all of these various pieces that do what? Perhaps you know how your telescope works (sort of), but you’re not sure what to do with it. However much you know or don’t know about YOUR telescope, you will leave with enough knowledge to take on your scope, one-on-one, and come out victorious. We start with the sky and end with your eye. Your telescope will forever be your friend (until you get a bigger friend). Bring your telescope along, cardboard spyglass or Hubble wannabe, and we’ll make this a hands-on learning experience.

BINOCULAR ASTRONOMY
Sure, binoculars aren’t exactly the Hubble Space Telescope, but they are actually quite capable astronomical instruments that provide a unique and refreshing view of the Celestial Heavens. When both of your eyes get involved with seeing, a synergy takes place in your brain that enhances the image beyond what a single retina can deliver. They are easy to use, highly portable, require little maintenance and come in a great variety of designs and price ranges. Large or small, name brand or not, bring along your binoculars; we might actually be able to do some viewing if the weather permits. If you are in the market for binoculars and would like to find out what kind would be most practical for you, come join the party.

THE NIGHT OF 100 ASTRONOMERS
Man has been looking at the sky ever since he could look at the sky. There have been thousands of Astronomers over the millennia and they all learned from each other in sequence. Isaac Newton said “If I have seen further than others, it is because I have stood on the shoulders of giants.” This class means to give you a whirlwind tour of the giants: at least about 100 of them. This is the history of Astronomy as told by the Astronomers. Come find out who discovered what, when, how they did it and why they are important enough to be included in the top 100 “giants.”

THE 10 GREAT STORIES LEADERS TELL
Good leaders ask, “How do I tell better stories?” Great leaders ask, “What stories do I need to tell?” Every great leader is a great storyteller. And the first and most important part of being a great storyteller is knowing what stories to tell. In this class, expert storyteller and best-selling author, Paul Smith, will reveal the ten most important stories that great leaders need to tell. As part of his research, Paul conducted over 300 in-depth, one-on-one interviews with CEOs, leaders, and executives in over twenty-five countries around the world. He used this research to outline several dozen of the most useful types of business and personal stories. And while great leaders need hundreds of stories, not all stories are equally important. This class will help you discover and tell yours! Class fee includes an autographed copy of Paul's new book.

BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND!

CINCINNATI TRUE CRIME DETECTIVE
Think you're an ace amateur sleuth or a crack private eye? Then match wits with local crime historian and Queen City Gothic author JT Townsend as he exhumes Cincinnati's most infamous murder mystery in this riveting 4-week class.

The crime was hideous, unexpected, baffling. Striking between the 4th and 5th slayings of the Cincinnati Strangler, the Bricca killer plunged a city already on edge into an abyss. And more than a half-century later, the Bricca mystery is a terminal, cold case with a fading pulse. Evidence has been lost, buried, or forgotten – the truth is elusive, shrouded, or shameful. Townsend was given unprecedented access to the Bricca case file – laden with information that never saw the light of print. And as an armchair detective stalking a legendary mystery, Townsend is not shackled by the presumption of innocence and reasonable doubt. All evidence is admissible – hearsay, rumors, gossip, and undertones.

Fee includes a copy of JT's book, Summer's Almost Gone.

Four-week session / $89
Th, Oct. 3-24 6:30-8:30pm  JT Townsend

AMERICAN TRUE CRIME DETECTIVE
American True Crime Detective is the class that cold case sleuths have been clamoring for. You will review four classic murder mysteries in 4 fascinating and interactive weeks! In the first week, you will unmask the crime of the century, who killed the Lindberg baby. Then, you'll evaluate 5 prime suspects and identify Marilyn Sheppard's killer. During week three, we will match evidence to conspiracy theory surrounding President Kennedy's death. Finally, we will close with the most notorious case involving death of innocence and trust - Jon Benet Ramsey. If you've taken one of JT Townsend's classes before, you know you will be astonished and amazed.

A NEIGHBORHOOD WALKING TOUR: LUDLOW KENTUCKY
Just across the river from Cincinnati is the small town of Ludlow, Kentucky. It was founded in 1790, just two years after Cincinnati. On this walking tour, we will visit Ludlow's two most historic landmarks: Elmwood Hall and Somerset Hall. Elmwood Hall is the oldest home in Ludlow, built by Thomas Carneal in 1818. Through the years, this mansion has been a candy factory and studio of celebrated modernist painter Jack Meanwell. Built a generation later, in the Greek Revival style, is nearby Somerset Hall. Constructed by slaves, about 170 years ago, it was part of the Underground Railroad. The brick house has the longest front porch in the Commonwealth and recently named a Kentucky landmark.

CINCINNATI GOETTA: A DELECTABLE HISTORY
Explore goetta's history in the city that made it regionally famous. Since its arrival with nineteenth-century Germanic immigrants, this humble dish has evolved from peasant staple to ubiquitous delicacy. Once upon a time, Cincinnatians found goetta mostly in neighborhood butcher shops, in Over-the-Rhine's so-called Goetta Alley and through Sander Packing, its first commercial producer. Now hungry locals scarf it down at diners and white-linen establishments alike and in everything from egg rolls to Reuben sandwiches. In this class, you will trace goetta from its Germanic origins and its first stop in Greater Cincinnati to its largest commercial producers, Queen City Sausage and Gliers, with food etymologist and “Goettevangelist,” Dann Woellert.

COMMUNICATION & WRITING

INTRO TO SCREENWRITING WORKSHOP
In this hands-on intensive 8-week course, you will turn your screenplay idea into a reality. You will learn the craft of screenwriting while balancing character, plot and action. Our expert instructor will guide you through initial concept, pitching the idea, developing a log line, creating a scene outline, and the beginnings of your first draft. We will also review scripts and movies and discuss them each week. By the end of this course, you will have a compelling first act and a strong desire to further develop your story. You do not need any previous screenwriting experience to sign up for this course. However, come with an idea for your screenplay. This idea will serve as a starting point for your work throughout the class.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION ON SOCIAL MEDIA
Contrary to conventional wisdom, it is possible to have intellectual, adult conversations on social media. In fact, it’s imperative that we do. While social media has reunited old friendships and provides a seemingly limitless variety of amusement, it’s also been used to spread conspiracy theories and fake news like wildfire through partisan echo chambers on both ends of the political spectrum. It’s time to raise the intellectual bar of conversation online, particularly on Facebook. During this class, we will review how to use social media to discuss serious topics and express yourself thoroughly. You will also learn how to make sound arguments and defend them while maintaining civility and respect for others.

ALL TOGETHER NOW: GROUP WRITING AND PEER COLLABORATION
Collaboration is key to unlocking new writing approaches and “alternate universe” writing perspectives. During this 6-week class, you will participate in exercises and engagement with your peers to strengthen character development, narrative storytelling, and descriptive content. In small groups, you will revise your fiction writing samples while developing a knack for giving and receiving critical feedback, all with the goal of producing a better product.

DARING THE ESSAY
In this class, we will explore our experiences and ask one question: How can we write a non-fiction story that our readers won’t soon forget and that will have a lasting impact on them? During 4 sessions, you will discuss the writing process, pull apart essays from famous writers like Stephen King, Christopher Hitchens, Joan Didion, and others, and finally write our own works and critique them in class. Whether you are interested in writing essays, memoirs, or just writing, you will learn how daring you can be in this class!

ADVANCED FICTION WRITING
Do you have a story idea but aren’t sure how to begin? Do your friends say you write well, but you’re not sure how to get started on that first book? Do you have a manuscript, or parts of a manuscript, and need to know how to polish it for publication? Are you a published author who wants to learn techniques to write more effectively and efficiently? In this course, you’ll explore all the topics a writer needs to create a successful manuscript, including story structure, plot, character, dialogue, setting, suspense, conflict, action, viewpoint, tense, and even how to get published. Each lesson includes an assignment that will help you develop or polish your manuscript. And in the Discussion Area, you’ll have an opportunity to share your work with classmates to obtain their feedback.

ACTIVE RELAXATION: A CORE ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE PRACTICE

If you’re thinking that seems like a contradiction in terms, it may be that you are confusing relaxing with collapsing (as in after a hard day with a nice chardonnay…) but, the secret to garnering the true benefits of relaxation lies in resting with true postural support. Alexander Technique based Constructive Rest is an active relaxation practice that helps to let go of tension and feel newly energized. When practiced daily for about 10-15 minutes, the body learns to appreciate this condition of fully-supported optimal-length and to extend its benefits to support all types of common or specialty activities.

ALEXANDER TECHNIQUE FOR POSTURE, POISE AND PERFORMANCE

The Alexander Technique is a skill that anyone can learn to alleviate pain, reduce tension and optimize everyday functioning. It works by learning to prevent unconscious misuse of the body and by applying simple directions that promote proper use. By improving the quality of day-to-day activities such as standing, walking, sitting or bending, the Technique will help you feel calmer, lighter, looser and taller. Students find that as their overall ‘use’ improves, many common complaints such as back and neck pain, headaches, congestion, stiffness or fatigue decrease, and that energy, effectiveness and professional skills increase.

INTRODUCTION TO FENG SHUI
The practice of Feng Shui is the art of placement and is used to draw positive energy into a building, room or area. In English, “Feng” and Shui” translates into “wind” and “water” which are associated with good health and good fortune. Traditional Feng Shui is believed to date back over 6000 years to the ancient Chinese Dynasties. In this four-week class, you will discover its origin and learn how the placement of objects in space can affect your life, relationships, business, and prosperity. You will learn how to sustain positive energy with flow and color, and how furniture, art, and music can create negative energy when incorrectly placed.

The Art of Conversation on Social Media
Contrary to conventional wisdom, it is possible to have intellectual, adult conversations on social media. In fact, it’s imperative that we do. While social media has reunited old friendships and provides a seemingly limitless variety of amusement, it’s also been used to spread conspiracy theories and fake news like wildfire through partisan echo chambers on both ends of the political spectrum. It’s time to raise the intellectual bar of conversation online, particularly on Facebook.

On September 24, Communiversity welcomes Paul Smith to explain how you can use social media to discuss serious topics and still treat people with civility and respect online. Paul is one of the world’s leading experts on business storytelling. He’s a keynote speaker, storytelling coach, and bestselling author of the books Lead with a Story, Parenting with a Story, and Sell with a Story.

KARMA TAROT FROM A TIBETAN BUDDHIST PERSPECTIVE
Have you ever wanted to read tarot cards and interpret their meanings? In this 4-week class, you will learn how to read tarot for yourself and others in a meaningful way. You’ll find out what is behind the pictures of the world’s most famous deck, The Rider Waite deck, and apply William Lammey’s definitions for Major Arcana (22 cards) and the Minor Arcana (56 cards) and how they resonate with each other in inter-dependence. You will gain a richer, deeper group of metaphors to pass on during your readings. We will start with a layout called the Seven Pillars of Life, and you’ll come away with awareness of a 3-card layout, a 9-card layout, and a relationship spread (if we have time). Karma Tarot card reading is not a part of traditional Tibetan Buddhist practice.

You must purchase a new The Rider Waite deck and do not open until our first class together. We will review the process of smudging and handling your new deck.

PHOTOGRAPHY'S GREATEST SECRETS, FINALLY REVEALED

Go behind the scenes with professional photographer Robert A. Flischel and discover the secrets of great photographs.

This course is designed for photographers with some experience who want to take their skills to the next level by incorporating previsualization of images, effective editing, and more. Robert Flischel is committed to sharing his 45 years of experience to help make you a fearless photographer.

Robert A. Flischel graduated from Xavier University in 1971. He studied photography under Kazik Pazovski and credits his clean, direct style to Pazovski's influence. He is currently President Emeritus of the Art League, has taught photography at Northern Kentucky University, and frequently lectures on historic preservation.

Class fee includes an autographed copy of “Cincinnati Illuminated, a Photographic Journal"

Four-week session / $129

INTERMEDIATE PHOTOGRAPHY

This course is designed for those who love to take pictures and want to enhance their skills. Today’s digital cameras seem overwhelmingly complex with many buttons and controls. In this course we spend plenty of time discussing camera operation and how to take advantage of the features provided but most importantly we explore what makes a good photograph. Once you have a better idea of how a camera works you can concentrate on what’s in the frame. Subjects such as composition, selective focus, exposure, and lighting combined with a better understanding of camera controls can open a whole new world of image making and are the emphasis of this course. Students should have basic experience taking pictures and have a camera with adjustable controls such as a DSLR although those with advanced point and shoot cameras will also benefit from this course. Most important is a desire to improve your photographic knowledge and image making skills. Class includes a field trip weather permitting.

Six-week session / $169

Th, Oct. 3-Nov. 7  6-7:20pm  John Engleman

PHOTOGRAPHIC LIGHTING

In this course, we will explore how lighting can enhance your photographs using professional techniques for natural or applied lighting. It begins with the basics of light theory, quality, direction, and manipulation. While the course emphasizes lighting for portraiture we will also discuss lighting in general for all types of images including landscapes, travel, and product photography. Classes include demonstrations of lighting techniques and in-class photo shoots with various types of lighting equipment such as flash and reflectors. Students are encouraged to apply what is learned in the class to their own photographs and share the results during class time. Lighting equipment will be available for use during class or you may bring any lighting equipment you have already have but what to learn more about. A location photography field trip is also planned for one of our weekly sessions (weather permitting). Students should have a basic understanding of camera operation and have some photographic experience.

Graphic Design for Non-Designers
If you own a small business or market your brand, then you know first impressions matter. Good design of websites and print materials is the best way to leave a good first impression. Who better to teach these design skills than our very own graphic designer?

Brittany Love Fletcher has been creating course catalogs for Communiversity since Spring 2019. She has also created multiple print and digital marketing assets for Communiversity and the College of Arts & Sciences at UC. Through her freelance work, she has done layout for The Homefront Herald, a historical journal, and created a logo and marketing assets for Creations by Jordan, a baking start-up.

Brittany has catered this class to the novice designer and those seeking to gain a basic understanding of graphic design. You will discover basic design principles and good versus bad design while creating your own business cards, event essentials, and more. This is a hands-on experience and each class will involve creating different design projects.

INTERACTIVE ONLINE TOEFL IBT PREPARATION CLASS
The TOEFL iBT is a test that measures English academic proficiency. It is used as one part of the admission process at many English-speaking universities. Also, many medical and licensing agencies use them for professional certification purposes. This course will cover all four areas of the TOEFL iBT; reading, writing, listening and speaking and is taught by two licensed teachers. For the class, listening and speaking will be on Tuesdays and reading and writing will be on Wednesdays. Students who want to take this TOEFL class usually have more success if they have a high intermediate to advanced level of English. This class is not a beginner English class; we will not be teaching basic English skills.
