Parking: appeal of violations.

- (A) Citation fines will double if not paid or appealed within ten calendar days as indicated on the citation.
- (B) A citation may be appealed in accordance with the procedures established by parking services. All appeals are reviewed by the parking appeals committee.
- (C) Citations timely appealed do not require upfront payment of the fines. Citations appealed after ten calendar days from the date the citation is issued, require the payment of all fines, and any associated fees, before the appeal can be processed. An administrative service fee will be assessed to all appealed citations that are sustained by the parking appeals committee. If a citation is overturned, all fines and fees paid toward that citation will be refunded.
- (D) Simple errors or omissions on a citation, which have no direct effect on the actual circumstances surrounding the violation, are not considered grounds for cancellation of the citation.
- (E) All decisions rendered by the parking appeals committee are final.
